PLAZA.

Those who like to have their entertainment of a vaudeville nature furnished them in lively, snappy fashion will be more than pleased with the program arranged at the Plaza for the fore part of the week with the opening performance this afternoon. Dora Dean Players have been selected to head the list with a singing, dancing and comedy attraction that is a treat in every sense of the word. Miss Dean is recognized as one of variety's cleverest and most versatile entertainers and she has surrounded herself with a septette of nimble bodied and sweet voiced darkies. The act is unusual and will surely prove one of the big hits of the season.

Jack Sidney and Miss Billie Townsley, two talented young folk with beautiful voices that harmonize exquisitely and exceptional ability in the lopedorean line will have an important spot to fill.

Then too, Carson and Willard should have an easy victory with their comedy skit entitled "At the Bulletin Board" for both are doped-in-the-wool comedians and their material is new.

Completing the vaudeville is Samaya, who will present one of the most sensational aerial offerings behind the footlights today.

Bessie Barriscale, the talented emotional actress, has the title role in "Plain Jane," the Triangle's latest contribution to the Plaza's picture program, and a splendid feature it is, serving as an excellent vehicle for Miss Barriscale. Charles Ray, the popular juvenile leading man, is cast opposite Miss Barriscale, a fact that will please his man admirers to no little extent.

A Keystone comedy in two laughable parts completes the bill.

POLI'S

Mabel Berra, star of several Broadway productions including "Little Nemo," and "The Enchantress," will be seen at Poli's, the first half of the week, in the big musical comedy "At Midnight." This is from the pen of Fred de Gresac, who wrote "The Bride Shop" and is a most complete production. Supporting Miss Berra will be a big company of well-known players.

In the photoplay bill will be featured "The Common Law," filmed from Robert W. Chambers' novel and starring Clara Kimball Young and her own company. This big production is in seven reels and holds fully as much interest as did the novel of the same name. Pathe's Pictorial News will also be shown.

Willard Dashiell, formerly of the Poli Players here, and a selected company will appear in a playlet "A Boss There Was," written by John J. Splain of New Haven. Mr. Dashiell's many friends will extend him a warm welcome.

William Morrissey & Company, a trio of funsters, in a snappy variety offering; William Ebbs, a premier ventriloquist and Slatre and Attwood, in dancing and acrobatics, will also be seen.

LYRIC

Plays are usually short-lived, but "Texas," which comes to the Lyric theatre this week, is a comedy drama which has had an almost phenomenal lease of life and which has been revived again this year, winning new popularity. It is a play so worth while that many people go to see it the second and third time. Women and children are among those who praise it the highest, because it is wholesome in all its essentials. It is a production much at variance with the present day drama, and most people who see it pronounce it a genuine relief and express the wish that there were more plays like it. It tells a simple story of ranch life but there are many scenes of such dramatic moment that they actually thrill one. The comedy is sparkling and it flows from the lips of flesh and blood characters. It gives one a realistic picture of life in the Lone Star state. This is especially pertinent at this particular time when Texas is so much before the public eye. The play is given a fine production in every way. Jane Wain is "Texas" West, so worth while, who plays "Oklahoma," created that role in the original production. Alvah H. Sims as "Fresh Water Jack," gives a splendid performance.

SHUBERT

The Winter Garden's now mobilization of mirth provokers in its new musical extravaganza, "The Show of Wonders," a scintillating scamper in two acts and 20 scenes, will be presented at the Shubert theatre, New Haven, during the entire week of Oct. 16. Those desiring to see this show before it goes into the Winter Garden, New York, the week following should arrange to attend Bridgeport night, Wednesday, Oct. 12. This new show from the Winter Garden promises to eclipse anything so far attempted in elegance and magnificence. The cast, not to overlook of course the usual Winter Garden's Rosebud Garden of Girls will include such famous fun makers as McIntyre and Heath, Eugene and Willie Howard, George W. Monroe, Walter Kelly, the "Virginia Judge," Tom Lewis, John T. Murry, Dalay Irving, Mary-Jane Miller, Grace Fisher, Mabel Elaine, Marge Lavage, Ellenor Brown, Clayton and White, Doris Lloyd, James Watt and Sydney Phillips. There will, of course, be the Winter Garden runway over the heads of the audience, spectacular ballet and all that sort of thing usual with the Winter Garden show.

CAUGHT UNDER CAR THAT OVERTURNED, ONLY SLIGHTLY HURT

His automobile turning turtle, as a result of a collision at Barnum avenue and Pembroke street, shortly after midnight, Stanley Jakowsky, astounded spectators of the accident by crawling from under his machine, having suffered only a few scratches.

Jakowsky, who lives at 325 Ogden street, struck a car owned and operated by Albert Fisher of Asylum street. Both cars were damaged by the impact. The police say they were running at a high rate of speed.

The body of John Kuhn, who died at Hillside home, was buried at Lakeview by Rourke & Boucher Saturday. No friends or relatives claimed the body.

HENRY HAYNES.

The funeral of Henry Haynes was held from his late home, 150 Seaview avenue, at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Rev. B. F. Kidder, pastor of the Summerfield M. E. church, conducted the services, which were largely attended. The bearers: Philip Cuyard, Richard Fray, Edward Van Barber, Thomas Gunning, Benjamin Sinbert, Charles O'Brien. Burial was in Park cemetery.

MARGARET MOONEY.

Margaret, wife of James Mooney, formerly constable of Fairfield, died at her home, 911 Broad street, on Saturday night, following a week's illness with pneumonia. Mrs. Mooney was a well known member of Sacred Heart church. She is survived by her husband, a son, Daniel Mooney, and two brothers, Michael McCarrick of Fairfield, and Patrick McCarrick of Bridgeport, also a niece and nephew of this city. The funeral will be held from the undertaking parlors of Michael J. Gannon on Broad street.

George Anito, five, of the Bronx, died at Lebanon hospital from burns received when his clothing caught fire from a small bonfire built by boys in a vacant lot.

CHIEF ADDRESSES TRADE SCHOOL BOYS ON FIRE AVERTING PRECAUTIONS

Fire Prevention Day is being observed in this city today. Chief Daniel E. Johnson of the fire department addressed a gathering of boys this morning at the State Trade school in John street and procured their co-operation in the campaign for more safety.

Chief Johnson pointed out that every year, $250,000,000 damage is done by fire in this country, and that much of the loss is preventable. Five thousand deaths occurred in fires and losses of $500 a minute were suffered.

Care could eliminate much of this, he asserted. He gave the boys instructions regarding precautions. Removal of waste material is one of the best preventative measures, he said. Precautions with matches are necessary.

Accidents, he said, also take an enormous toll of lives, and here carelessness is again largely responsible. Several days ago Chief Johnson and Inspector of Combustibles Thomas F. Broderick urged merchants, manufacturers and householders to make an effort to get rid of waste material. A general cleaning up has followed. Chief Johnson said, but carts cannot be obtained to take away the stuff.

Gov. Holcomb issued a proclamation today, calling attention to the desirability of observing the day.

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDINGS OF TWO EAST SIDE COUPLES

Celebration of silver wedding anniversaries of two members of the Social Star Whist club was held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Breetz, 430 Hollister avenue and Mr. and Mrs. John Molden, 1443 Stratford avenue.

The occasion was one of deep interest to the participants and to the club of which the honored guests had been members for nearly 15 years. Handsome cut glass vases presented after play at cards by Mrs. Mitchell are the testimonials which each of the homes cherishes today.

The gathering of the 24 members of the club at the Mitchell home at 1114 Park avenue was in the nature of a surprise to both couples, who entered the handsomely decorated home and sat beneath the big silver bell in the dining room under the belief that they were to participate in the other couple's games. A special orchestra improvised for the occasion rendered musical selections during the card play and also played for the dancing which ensued.

At the conclusion of the evening's games appropriate remarks upon the life of both couples were made as Mrs. Mitchell presented each in turn with the club's gifts. The surprise to each was intensified by the secrecy in which the event was shrouded until its denouement.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hurliman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Henkel, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Minor, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Auth, Mr. and Mrs. William Malley, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Whitburn, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rhode and Mr. and Mrs. James Steinberger.

Story of a Faithful Dog.

Animals, and especially dogs, can be most sincere mourners. Near Greyfriars church, Edinburgh, stands the statue of a dog bearing this inscription:

GREYFRIARS BOBBY.
From the life, just before his death. A TRIBUTE
To the affectionate fidelity of GREYFRIARS BOBBY.

In 1858 this faithful dog followed the remains of his master to Greyfriars Churchyard, and lingered near the spot until his death in 1872.

Erected by the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, 1872.

Think of it! Fourteen years! In the winter Bobby lay under a fat tombstone for shelter, and he was found dead on his master's grave one morning after having waited patiently for fourteen long years. Surely a remarkable instance of animal fidelity.

Why the Coconut Has Eyes.

Who can tell why the coconut has three eyes? Luther Burbank explains it this way:

Coconuts generally grow at the edge of the sea or rivers. The nuts are surrounded with a thick husk with a waterproof covering, so that when they drop into the water they will float. In floating the three eyes are always on top.

Once in the water nature gets busy. From one of the eyes there comes a shoot, which develops broad leaves like sails. The wind catches the sails and wafts the coconut on a journey sometimes many miles long. As it sails the other two eyes develop roots, which at first grow among the fibers of the woody husk.

In good season the coconut is swept upon another shore, perhaps on another island. The roots embed themselves in the soft earth, the sail becomes the trunk, and a coconut palm is growing where none grew before.

The "Tired Business Man."

Are not all business men tired? If not why do we hear so much about musical comedies and vaudeville performances that are constructed especially for the purpose of resting and refreshing the tired business man?

If there is any one claim that has been conceded for ages past it is this: Fatigue is much more fatal to a man than to a woman. We seldom hear of a tired washerwoman or a tired housekeeper. Nobody ever wrote a musical comedy for tired schoolmarm. It has always been held that if a man has to work at night he must sleep in the daytime. But everybody knows that a woman can walk the floor all night with a sick baby in her arms and still be able to perform strenuous household duties next day. "Man's work is from sun to sun"—that being the limit of his endurance.—Southern Woman's Magazine.

by a unique instrument known as a bird organ. It consists of two round sheet iron cylinders, one inside of the other. The lower one contains water. The upper one is manipulated by a series of small weights and pulleys, which cause it to settle slowly downward, the air being expelled through a whistle, which has several modifiers to give variety to its tones. When the upper cylinder has come down the required distance a spring operates the weights that raise it again to repeat the sound.

Starting Trouble.

"It's going to be war to the knife," declared the suburban man, who was feeding his chickens.
"What now?" asked his friend.
"Why, Banks sent me a box of axle grease and advised me to use it on my lawn mower."
"Well," I sent it back and told him to use it on his daughter's voice."—London Mail.

Advice.

"There's one sure way to get along in this world."

"Quit fretting about the things some one else has and keep hustling for the things that so far no one has and you can get for yourself if you're first on the job."—Detroit Free Press.

Humiliation.

"I tell you, sir, kissing the hand that smites you is nothing to what I saw in the hotel this morning."
"What was that?"
